Cenla Author of the Month

Author of the Month

Main Library

Saturday, June 15, 2024, 10:00 am to 11:30 am

Jerrica "Jae" Franklin is a spoken word poet and author from Alexandria, Louisiana. She started her craft at the age of eight, however, she was never certain of the form of writing she was creating. As a young child, she suffered from a mild speech impediment called cluttering -which made her extremely uncomfortable reading aloud and verbally communicating with others. After the death of her mother at ten years old, she found poetry to be a vital coping mechanism.

Her work is most known for its signature flow and Jae's gentle and linguistic tone. She published her first book in January 2023 entitled Words For Wings, a collective of poems describing pivotal moments of her young life. After her personal unfortunate circumstances, she prides herself in being a voice for the many young people society strays from. The greatest purpose of her art is to advocate for those who have been ridiculed due to their background, financial status, sexual orientation, religious beliefs, mental illness and all things that are created to hinder fighting the odds. She is constantly rooting for the underdogs of the world. Her mission in poetry is 'to be FRANK at all times'.
